First Acceptance Evidence Timeline

Lawsuit against First Acceptance Insurance Co. of Georgia, Inc. · DeKalb Superior Court No. 25CV10635 · DeKalb Police Case #26-076972

A Georgia policyholder says an auto policy was signed in her name without her consent, and that DocuSign's own records show the same pattern on hundreds of other customers' policies: 636 "signed" from one storefront IP address, and 162 "signed" in under 60 seconds after the customer's invitation went to the agent's own email. Every entry below links to the record and supports one of two points the policyholder makes. Where a public source exists, you can check it yourself.

162 contracts "signed" in under 60 seconds

In every one, DocuSign sent the customer's signing invitation to the agent's own work email (TSimmons-Huff@acceptance.com), and the signature in the customer's name and the agent's signature came less than 60 seconds apart. 161 of them from the same storefront IP address. The fastest: 32 seconds. These are part of 636 envelopes "signed" from that one storefront.

See all 162, each linked to its DocuSign record → · Certificates as filed · Histories as filed

1. First Acceptance knew

The pattern ran through the company's own DocuSign account, inboxes, managers and home office, and the company moved the records and dropped the agents as complaints came in.

2. The "sale" was a shell

After it "sold" the storefronts, First Acceptance kept the same people, accounts, addresses and filings, and kept getting paid on the stores' business.

Every record here is either posted as filed or linked to the original in the public court file, DeKalb Superior Court No. 25CV10635. Nothing is altered, except that the policyholder's own personal details and agents' home street addresses are blacked out. A few items not yet in the court file still link to the policyholder's own copies and are marked.

All of this is alleged. First Acceptance denies wrongdoing, and no one named here has been found liable for any crime. Whether a crime happened is for police, prosecutors and the courts.

748	636	162	205
envelopes DocuSign produced under subpoena	"signed" from one storefront IP address	"signed" in under 60 seconds, invitations sent to the agent's email	envelopes later moved into the parent company's account

Counts are the policyholder's analysis of DocuSign's production. The certificates and envelope histories are in the public court file ("Submission of Evidence," Sept. 4, 2026) so anyone can recount.

The company's sworn statement

With its Motion to Dismiss, First Acceptance filed an affidavit from D.J. Kaiser, Senior Director Claims Casualty, First Acceptance Services, Inc., swearing the agency was sold "to a wholly independent company" and that the agent was never an agent of First Acceptance of Georgia. OCI shows First Acceptance of Georgia appointed her through Oct. 2, 2024. The affidavit names the store as Flat Shoals Parkway, Decatur; her policy lists Milledgeville. The notary date line is blank.

Calls with the agent, then a call from "the legal team"

The policyholder called Simmons-Huff at a number she found online. Simmons-Huff texted "Never received information," then called back for nearly ten minutes. Minutes later a caller from 404-592-1769 said he was Berry Russell with First Acceptance's legal team. His LinkedIn shows he left Acceptance in December 2024. She recorded both calls in part.

To block the subpoenas, the company calls the records its own

The same Oct. 7 motion asks the court to quash all 28 of the policyholder's subpoenas, including those to DocuSign, the Liberty Mutual companies and DeKalb County Police, and to protect "FAGA's confidential information, trade secrets, and confidential information concerning its current and former employees and agents from disclosure." It also asks for a bill of peace requiring her to get the court's permission before further filings.

The company's discovery answers: it underwrote the policy, and "if" there was a forgery, the agent did it

In answers served Oct. 19, First Acceptance of Georgia admitted it underwrote the policy, that the policyholder paid on it, and that she reported the crash. It wrote that it "does not dispute that 'if' a forgery did occur, it was committed by Huff." It said the Kaiser affidavit relied on no specific document, only "his general knowledge." It said it did not "appoint" any agents relevant to the dispute, "as Defendant understands the term used in this Request," and that it "lacks sufficient information" about when the agent's appointment was cancelled. Georgia OCI shows it appointed her until Oct. 2, 2024.

Under subpoena, a carrier confirms it dropped four agents in one day, with no reason on file

InsureMax Insurance Company (AssuranceAmerica) answered the policyholder's subpoena with a sworn records-custodian declaration. Its records show it terminated Simmons-Huff, Tramaine Reeves, Yonna Boday and Christal Graves all on Feb. 14, 2024, nine days after her report to Georgia OCI. It "located no records" concerning "the reason for termination, termination notices or filings, communications, complaints, investigations, or disciplinary action," and said it "has not determined" whether any unlocated records "were deleted or lost." It found no records for Elena Garro, Farah Aghaei-Ardekani or Nubia Griffin.

NOT PUBLIC YET The carrier's own subpoena response. Why all four were dropped the same day is not stated.
